Recently I read a story about a girl who was wanted in Salt Lake City for forgery who then moved to New York City to con people out of money by saying that she had cancer. I found her email address and wrote to her and then she wrote me back. I excitedly told this to Amy who was unexcited that I had written to her. Later I reading an article about the con artist and a man described her as a person in a Santa suit holding a sign that says "I Don't Exist". I told Amy that I had read an article that mentioned this, but I didn't mention that it was an article about the con artist. Amy soon discovered that the phrase came from the article about the con artist. In her head I imagine she though, "WHAT IS WRONG WITH MY BOYFRIEND."

Mike Tyson had a gigantic mansion built in northeastern Ohio in the 1990s but then went to jail and lost ownership of the house to the U.S. Government. A man who made a lot of money selling exercise tapes on television bought the but then himself went to jail for illegally importing diamonds. Now the gigantic mansion sits empty, not having tenants since the late 1990s. People have found a way into the house, which features a beautiful indoor pool, a black bathtub and a sundae bar.

Vivien Leigh was the consummate actress, hampered by beauty. She also had Tuberculosis. She was born on November 5th, that's my birthday too!

If You're Cold You're Dead - 15"x13" Latex On Wood 2009

Chuck Dukowski from the band Black Flag coined this phrase. I think it means that you should just be normal to people and not think that you're better than them. Some people are jerks but then just claim that they're socially awkward, but that's totally hogwash. They're simply jerks, being dorky rulez.

OK, GET THIS: in an alternate universe after 9/11 ██████████ McDonald's builds a giant GOLDEN ARCHES memorial to replace the fallen World Trade Towers. THEN, they go ahead and sell paintings of said memorial. This is that painting, and when you buy it you are living in that alternative universe. Go ahead and quit your job. It's the end of the world as you know it and you feel like eating a Whopper. Burger King tastes pretty good!
