

Bananas, Yeah Yeah Yeah - 18"x18" Latex On Wood 2009

Recently somebody told me this is a painting of Liza Minelli. It's not. It's a painting of Paul McCartney about to eat a banana. Paul McCartney is wild about non-meat food items. He also divorced a one-legged woman. With a love like that you know you should be glad. I can't wait for lunch!

Bea Arthur Will Never Die - 18"x18" Latex On Wood 2009

People are so dumb to think that major celebs just cease to exist. After you drink the blood of a newborn baby with Marlon Brando you live forever. There is a time when their earthly shell becomes empty for logical reasons, but then they travel miles deep under Cincinnati, Ohio to a compound built by Ted Turner in the 1990s. It's called Turnerville. It's also known as Paradise.

Bill Cosby - 18"x18" Latex On Wood 2009

Did you ever see the television show Pictures Pages? Oh, that show was so weird. As I remember it was just Bill Cosby drawing with a giant marker that made noises when it moved. He would move it across a page and it would go BEEDLE-DEE-BEEDLE-DEE-BEEDLE-DEE-BOOP-BEE-BOOP. I have made and sold this painting well over 25 times, that's why it's so affordably priced. It takes me less than 20 minutes to make. I'm smart!

Boomer Theater - 18"x24" Latex On Wood 2009

If you have been reading this guide from the beginning, you'll know that I've already admitted to pandering. You'll also probably have the suspicion that I'm just making stuff up. You might not know what to believe. One thing you can believe is that when Pat Benatar played The Boomer Theater in 1979, the flyer looked like this:

